

TINA BORAH

Phone: 3478079349 | Email: tina.borah@uga.edu

RELEVANT EXPERIENCE Department of English, UGA

---

Instructor of Record, First Year Writing

August 2022-Present

- Taught FYW courses ENGL 1101 & 1102 (Literature of Liminality)
- Developed independent course syllabi for students from non-literary backgrounds.

Writing Center Consultant, Center for Writing

August 2023-Present

- Offer tailored writing guidance to students via individual consultations, and online feedback.

Phillis Wheatley Research Assistant

Jan 2023-Nov 2023

- Assisted Dr. Barbara McCaskill in designing and organizing events for the Genius of Phillis Wheatley event.
- Handled social media, banner, and poster design and outreach of the program.
- Liaisoning with the various stakeholders and scholars in UGA and TCU as a part of the year-long event.

EDUCATION

---

Department of English, University of Georgia, Athens

PhD 2022 Aug-Present

- Research Areas: Partition and Migration studies with a focus on the Northeastern region of India, Ecocriticism, Literary Theory, and Area Studies.

Department of English, University of Delhi

Coursework audited 2020 Sept–2021 March

- Coursework: The Long Partitions: Literature of Displacement and Homelessness
Under the Cloud(?): The Question of Third Culture/ Third Space
Contextualizing Disability Studies in Literature & Films
Research Methodology

Department of English, University of Delhi

Master of Arts 2016 Aug–2018 Aug

Concentration: English

Credits: Philosophy

CONFERENCES

---

British Commonwealth Postcolonial Studies (BCPS), Savannah

Feb 13, 2024

- Panel: The Search for Identity and Home

Paper Name: Re-evaluating Home and Identity through the Metaphor of Disease in Aruni Kashyap's His Father's Disease

PUBLISHED WORKS

---

- Review of The Light at the End of the World by Siddharth Deb in Southern Review of Books August 31, 2023
- Review of Everything the Light Touches by Janice Pariat in Southern Review of Books March 30, 2023